Tompkins County Public Library (TCPL), The Hotel Ithaca, and Cornell Herbert F. Johnson Museum of Art, Ithaca.

Program Schedule

10:00am. Social Time

Via's Cookies (viacookies.com) baked by Via Carpenter, Ithaca Branch Member, and beverages at Tompkins County Public Library Borg-Warner Meeting Room, 101 East Green Street, Ithaca.

10:15am. To 12:00pm. Open Books - Open Minds

Public Panel Discussion on the National Dialogue and Issues Facing Our Communities with Books being banned by School Boards and Libraries.

The panel will feature a moderator, Susan Annah Currie, and three panelists:

Moira Lang, Mary-Carol Lindbloom, and Leslie Tabor

sharing their knowledge, expertise and experiences on the book banning issue. A timekeeper, Kathy Earnest-Koons, will assist the panelists in keeping the panel discussions moving along.

Panel Moderator

Susan Annah Currie is a librarian, author and county legislator. She worked for close to thirty years in leadership positions at Cornell University and SUNY Binghamton Libraries. In 2009, she was chosen to be the director of the historic Tompkins County Public Library in Ithaca, New York and retired as the Finger Lakes Library Director of the year in 2017. In 2021, she returned to Tompkins County Public Library as interim director, guiding the library in restoring hours and services as the county reopened after COVID-19 and as the search for a new director began. She is the author of the recently published memoir, "The Preventorium." She has been an invited speaker at the Mississippi Book Festival in Jackson, Ms., the Spring Writes Literary Festival in Ithaca, NY, Tompkins County Public Library, and guest lecturer at the Mississippi Department of Archives and History.

In 2023, she was elected to serve as a member of the Tompkins County Legislature. She obtained a B.A. in English from Belhaven College, attended graduate school focusing on medieval literature at the University of Mississippi, has a Masters in Library Science from the University of Buffalo and completed the Harvard University Leadership Institute for Academic Librarians.

Panelists

Moira Lang has been part of the Ithaca community since 1978. She spent 35 years as a secondary English teacher, 25 of those years at Ithaca High School, from 1985 to 2010. Moira received her BA in English from Union College and her MA in English from Middlebury College. She retired from the Ithaca City School District in 2010 and moved to Istanbul, Turkey, to teach English at Robert College for four years. She retired in June 2014. She joined the Ithaca City School District Board of Education in July 2015.

Mary-Carol Lindbloom is the executive director of a multi-type regional library system in NYS that provides electronic resources to area libraries and their patrons, avails learning and training opportunities to library workers, supports hospital libraries, and offers digitization services, among their many programs and services. She holds an M.L.S. from Syracuse University and B.A. in anthropology from St. John Fisher University. Ms. Lindbloom has worked in a variety of library settings: university, public, museum, hospital, and library system. As a multi-type system director, she works with member libraries of all types, from large universities to public libraries, hospitals, schools, and museums. She participates in the region's digital equity initiatives that *hope to avail affordable and robust internet, internet-enabled devices, training, and support to all NYS residents. A long-time AAUW Member and currently serves as Diversity Inclusion and Equity Chair for the Ithaca Branch.

Leslie Tabor is the Director of the Tompkins County Public Library, which means she is the chief cat herder. Leslie has worked on all sides of the customer service desk since 2008 and served the public at libraries including the Library of Congress, Pioneer Library System (OK), the New York Public Library, and the Phoenix Public Library (AZ). She helped design and build several new libraries as a program manager and had a short stint as a parking consultant. Leslie is thrilled to be back in NY State and enjoys the four seasons in Ithaca with her husband (also a librarian) and their dog, Slyde.
